Migration Society - Borders of the Future

As humans continue to exist, migration will persist alongside them. People always moved seeking better opportunities. But the population grows and migration evolves into a multifaceted challenge. While it is getting more accessible for some it becomes harder for others. If we deal with migration the right way, it can not only diversify communities but also lead to economical growth and more social equality.

Migration is a long process and includes a variety of different stages, starting prior to the transit with the decision making. People are motivated by a huge range of reasons, mainly economical ones. Other reasons are wars, political persecution, natural disasters and many more. That stage already requires action because it's not only our job to enable migration for those who want to, but also to ensure no one is forced to leave their home, their job and possibly their family as well. Part of it is preventing any further damages due to climate change and working on equal opportunities, enabling children from all around the world to get high level education and fairly paid jobs without the need to move.

The next stage is the transit itself. For some people it's as easy as jumping into a plane and hopping of in their destination. For others, the process involves risking their life in a small boat, walking and thus only taking few of their belongings. Among them are also people holding their breath everytime they get close to a border, afraid all the danger was for nothing and getting deported to their origin. Border control is a significant challenge posed by migration. How can we ensure the freedom of movement and prevent crimes like human trafficking at the same time? Controlled borders ease the search for criminals and possible victims. Some international corporations like the African Union already put programs in place to make the passage of borders easier dealing with those questions.

After entering the country of destination, the journey doesn't end for most migrants. Migrants often face precarious conditions in the country of their destination. If the status of the migration is not completed, working permits are really limited. In addition to the fear of being deported, people without a regular job and regular pay have little to no opportunities to be part of the new country.

Migration and borders lead to conflicts, conflicts about beliefs and identity as well as about property. It's also important to consider the past, especially in countries with colonialistic backgrounds leading to unnatural borders. Considering many different problems connected to borders and the way they are enforced opens the dialog for the development of borders. How will they impact humans in the future?

Now it is our turn to map the future.

Secretary General

Secretary General

Dear MUN enthusiasts,

It's my biggest honor to be the Secretary General of MUNOL 2024. The first thing I did was looking for the perfect conference theme, a current worldwide challenge, not too vague but also not too specific: Migration Society: Borders of the future.

The second thing I did was gather the most amazing team. The Chairs gave their input for the issues on the agenda and will lead the debates. The Crisis team prepared a surprising crisis to keep the delegates in action. The Team gets completed by the PGA, who helped me during the last month and will answer all your questions regarding the GA.

MUNOL is for making the best out of it, for daring to do something you never did before. Use the opportunity and ask if you have any questions.

All the work we invested was to create a week full of making new experiences and meeting incredible people. I hope you have the best time!

Yours sincerely,

Nike Rahlf
Secretary General

Conference Managers

Dear participants,
Dear guests,

On behalf of the Executive Board 2024 we welcome you to MUNOL XXVII. After one year of hard work, we are proud to see the conference come alive once again!

As Conference Managers, being responsible for the coordination of over 450 participants is quite a huge agenda. Therefore we want to express our gratitude towards the whole Executive Team without whose help the organisation of this week would not be possible. Furthermore, we want to thank every delegate, MUN Director, Chair, the MUNOL association and other guests for their motivation, determination and dedication during the conference - the true beauty of MUNOL.

The remarkable spirit of MUNOL has always been shaped by the great diversity of cultures, opinions and the friendships developed throughout the course of events. At the end of the week we guarantee that everyone leaves with exciting new memories, knowledge and experience. Passion for international politics and diplomacy is crucial in times like this when it comes to facing global challenges - together.

Whether you are part of the IT team, whether you are responsible for the MUNOL news content or whether you have put great effort into designing this year's merch.

Everyone contributes to MUNOL in their own way!

This Information Booklet will give you an insight into a variety of aspects shaping the conference. We hope you will enjoy it!

Sincerely,

Ole Weber Liam Lucas

Conference Managers

Financial Manager

Dear participants, dear guests, and dear sponsors,

I hereby welcome you all to the 27th edition of the Model United Nations of Lübeck!

A lot of work has been done to achieve another great conference for all of you. Sponsors were contacted, expenses were made, invoices were written and contracts signed. With all of this constantly in one's mind, the year really does pass very quickly and suddenly, it's the end of May again.

This year's conference would not have been possible without the financial support of our wonderful sponsors and partners, which are all shown in this booklet on the last pages. They are the reason why we can offer you high quality debates, meals, and event locations. I would like to thank each sponsor of our conference for believing in us and in our mission to unite the world.

I'm looking forward to meeting you and I wish all those not from Lübeck a wonderful stay in our beautiful city.

May this MUNOL be fresh, exciting, and simply munolicious!

Dresscode

You can find the 8th edition of the MUNOL Rules of Procedure including the Dress Code here!

Any participant of MUNOL is to be suitably dressed, wearing either long trousers in combination with a jacket, shirt and tie or a trouser-suit, a dress or a coat/blazer in combination with a skirt. Dresses and shirts must have an appropriate neckline.

Non-compliance with the dress code may lead to a reprehension and is to be corrected for the further proceedings of the conference

Dress code checks maybe done by the Secretaries-General, the Conference Management or the Chair of the forum the delegate attends.

Always wear your badge everywhere! It's your card of identification and without it you can't get into the locations!

Make sure that your shirt has an appropriate neckline. Also don't forget your tie!

Trousers should be long enough to cover your entire leg. If you want to wear a skirt, it shouldn't be shorter than one hand (horizontal) above your knee.

Formal shoes (dress shoes, high heels, etc.) are required.
No sneakers!

Role of a Delegate

For the proper simulation of the United Nations, it is vital that all students, acting as a delegate, take their duties and responsibilities very seriously. Delegates are to conduct themselves as diplomats at all times. This involves a proper code of conduct but first and foremost compliance with the official MUNOL Rules of Procedure and the acceptance of the Chairs and the Executive Staff as the major authority. A conference at the scale of MUNOL can only work efficiently if all members involved cherish the level of professionalism and proficiency.

The relationship between a delegate and the Chair
A forum should be filled with mutual respect from both sides to ensure a productive debating climate.

If a delegate feels dissatisfied with any part of the conference, they are more than welcome to approach their Chair, the Secretary -General, or the Conference Management to share their concerns.

It is needless to say that the proper conduct of a delegate demands punctuality. Not being present at specific times can lead to an interruption of the whole organisation. Unpunctuality will normally result in punitive measures decided upon by the Chairs or the Executive Staff.

MUN Directors

Dear MUNOL Friends!

Skills like communication, teamwork, critical thinking and others have always been important for work and life. Isn't that what MUNs are about? Young people get together to debate on a wide range of issues, to cooperate, to find compromise, to learn how to turn problems into opportunities and solutions. That is amazing!

This year's conference theme at MUNOL is Migration society- borders of the future. The number of international migrants keeps increasing and governments as well as UN organizations work to help ensure the orderly and humane management of migration.

A team of bright, diligent, dynamic, remarkable young people has spent months on organizing this conference. The executive team, the chairs, delegates and especially Nike, Liam, Ole and Jonas have shown a lot of commitment. Our friends from the association have supported the team whenever necessary. There were ups and downs but the team never gave up, always conveyed optimism. A challenge was to shorten the conference to four days but challenges are there to be overcome. The team has solved everything excellently.

Now MUNOL 2024 is about to begin. That is exciting. Questions come up: Will debates be productive? Will chairs be able to radiate authority? Will guests feel comfortable? Will everything run smoothly?

What we can say for sure is this: We are proud of what our students have achieved again. We are happy to welcome our guests from so many countries. We are looking forward to spending a munolicious week with new and old friends. And we are delighted to see so many young people coming together to work on serious issues. You, the young generation, hold the key to creating a better future.

We finally say thank you to all the host families willing to host delegates from different countries and, what is a conference without money, to all our sponsors having supported us for so many years now. THANK YOU.

Enjoy MUNOL 2024 and come back in 2025!

Lübeck's

The Thomas-Mann-Schule, where most of the conference is taking place, has been hosting MUNOL conferences since 1998 and we are grateful for the tremendous support we receive from the principal, the teachers and also the students. Not only with this project does our school stand for internationality, community and sustainability, but with many others as well.

The Kolosseum Ballroom is one of the most beautiful places for classical events in Lübeck. This year, it will host our Opening and Closing Ceremony as well as the plenary sessions of the General Assembly. Although the outside of the building is slightly unassuming - you'll change your mind once you're inside, trust us!

The annual welcome ceremony takes place in the town hall of Lübeck. The town hall is an integral part of Lübeck's town centre, situated in the midst of it and having been built in 1308 - although there have been changes made over time....

This year's location of the "MUNOL Chill Out" on Tuesday will be - as it has traditionally been for many years - the Strandsalon. You can look forward to a cozy atmosphere, comfortable spots to sit with a great view on a part of Lübeck's harbor, and cool music - creating the atmosphere of a chilled beach evening...

One of Lübeck's top event locations is the "Schuppen 9". Romantically set right at the foot of Lübeck's historic town centre the former harbour shed has been developed into a facility that serves very well as the place to celebrate the 27th edition of MUNOL coming to an end...

DJ for both of our evening events will be the legendary Max von Schwarz. He's a very experienced professional having already been responsible for the DJing of MUNOL parties as a student. Therefore we are looking forward to welcoming him once again at MUNOL XXVII!

Merch

During the past months our design team has worked hard to create this year's merchandise. At the MUNOL kiosk you can now buy it. Any questions concerning the merchandise will gladly be answered at the Secreteriat! It will surely be a highlight at every evening event...

Thank you!

Our biggest thank you goes to our delegates, you are the reason MUNOL was initially founded. However, during the past 11 months we had the great opportunity to work with so many different wonderful people, who supported us to make this conference possible. Therefore a special thank you goes to:
